PEACHTREE CENTER ADDS PANBURY'S TO ALL-STAR DINING LINEUP

ATLANTA (Nov. 20, 2015) – Panbury's Pie Café, a favorite Sweet Auburn Curb Market concept serving up sweet and savory South African-inspired pies, has unveiled its second location at Peachtree Center. With this latest opening, Peachtree Center ends a year of stellar restaurant development, including critically acclaimed Gus's World Famous Fried Chicken and Atlanta mainstay Tin Lizzy's.

"We're thrilled to be at Peachtree Center. It's exactly the kind of atmosphere that we envisioned for our pies—it's bustling, transitory, business-centered, and a must-stop for tourists," says Lauren Duxbury, Panbury's owner. "Panbury's pies are meant to be eaten on the move; they are the perfect option for a wholesome breakfast or lunch break. Our pies also heat up really well, and many of our customers pop by after work to pick up pies for an easy, quick family dinner."

Panbury's aligns nicely with Peachtree Center's array of successful quick-service restaurants and the pie shop's lunchtime, take-home dinner model is sure to excite the array of office workers, downtown residents and visitors who frequent the busy hub. The new location will focus more heavily on breakfast foods and include an expanded breakfast pie menu.

"Peachtree Center has always been a downtown lunch hotspot, but we're now evolving as a place where people from all over the city come to eat," says Marti Blackstock, vice president at Banyan Street Capital, which owns Peachtree Center. "We're excited that Panbury's unique South African menu and friendly service are contributing to our excellent variety of restaurants."

Peachtree Center is proud to offer an all-star dining line-up with award winners like Aviva by Kameel and Panbury's, pushing it to rival other restaurant hotspots like Midtown and Buckhead.
